How to Receive Praise For Planning Your Corporate Event... Without Lifting A Finger

Dear Busy Executive,

How many times have you hired someone to organize your important event and found yourself doing half the work? How often have you wished for someone who could guarantee that every last detail of your event would be taken care of?

Poor event management costs you and your company money. Lost sales, lost customers, lost opportunities. You know it. I know it. But what can you do about it?

Give me two hours, even one hour – I can show you what CityEvents can do for you.

My name is Deborah Lewis. I'm a professional event planner and organizer of over 500 custom events. I've been in the business for more than 12 years, and over the years I've developed a way to perfect event organizing that sets me apart from everyone else.

My company, CityEvents, has already helped hundreds of satisfied clients achieve excellent returns on their event dollars. They get increased leads, more sales – and ultimately more clients.

Shouldn't you be getting this too?

Ask the people I've already organized successful events for, whether the event is three hours or three days... whether it's a gala event... a conference or a product launch... for a Not For Profit or a major corporation like Toronto Board of Trade or Nestle... everyone is satisfied!

I'll plan an event for you that's exciting, creative, unique and innovative. What I offer you is peace of mind, complete lack of stress and saved time.

And my service comes guaranteed. How many companies can offer you that?

D.L.

DL CEO, CityEvents
